Shot Down A Junkers 88 in Dieppe Raid

His Squadron Accounted For Four Nazi Planes Without Sustaining A Loss

An air mail letter received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boulton, informed them of the good news that he had taken part in the Dieppe raid and that he was now back at his English base safe and well.

In his letter Foss stated he had taken part in covering the Commando raid on Dieppe. He says in part "It certainly was hot over France. I got my first enemy aircraft, a Junkers 88. I could only claim a probable as I did not see him crash but both his engines were on fire when I left him."

"The squadron had a very good bag for the day, two Focke Wulf 190s and two Junkers 88s as well as more probables and damaged. The amazing thing is that we did not lose a man, . . . thank God."

WEDDINGS

LYDD — MARLAND

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, August 19 at 3 o'clock in the Pro-Cathedral chapel, Calgary, when Lillian, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marland, of Coleman, became the bride of AC Fred Lydd, R.A.F., of Lancashire, England.

Miss Dorothy Gate and AC Sid Goodwin were their only attendants. Rev. C. Cripps officiated.

FILIMEK — POTAPOFF

A quiet but interesting wedding was solemnized at the United church manse, Coleman, Saturday, August 29, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon when Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Potapoff, of Cowley, was united in marriage with John Filimek, of Blairmore. The bride was given in marriage by her father, who, along with Mrs. Kirk, were the official witnesses.

It was interesting to know that Mabel was the second daughter of the Potapoff home who chose to be married according to the marriage rights of the province rather than following the Doukhobor customs. The young couple will reside at Blairmore where the groom is employed.

Elks Carnival Given Grand Support By Local Citizens

Ernest McLarin And Eleanor Richards Major Prize Winners; Ronnie Lloyd Won C.C.M. Bicycle For Selling Most Major Prize Tickets.

Members of Coleman Elks lodge were a tired and weary gang of men in the wee hours of Tuesday morning but that failed to dim their jubilation in the knowledge that the carnival had been a success and that money was now available to aid them in their war and local charity work.

Support was given them by citizens in every town in the Pass and especially from the local citizen who gave them grand support.

A healthy ticket sale was made on both major prizes and it was here that the bulk of the money was derived. A Fernie citizen, Mr. Ernest McLarin, held the winning ticket on the $100 bond on Saturday night, and on Monday the lucky winner was Eleanor Richards, 3-year-old daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. L. S. Richards of the Grand Union hotel, who won the handsome bedroom suite. Ronnie Lloyd was perhaps the happiest youngster in the arena, with the exception of Eleanor, for he was announced as winner of the handsome C.C.M. bicycle given by the Elks to the boy or girl selling the most tickets on the major prizes. Ronnie had worked hard selling tickets and is reported to have out-distanced his rivals by a wide margin.

The prizes on the booths were fair, the Bingo booth did exceptionally well and showed a nice profit. The Crown and Anchor as is usually the case, showed a profit.

Rain, Monday morning, poured through the arena roof and some items of merchandise were slightly damaged.

Key officials of the Elks voiced their appreciation on Tuesday morning for the support given to the carnival by Coleman citizens who made it a success.

East Coleman Business Changes Ownership

Martin Hazuka Purchases Ferby Grocery; Mr. Ferby to Enlist in Armed Forces.

Friday night August 28, saw one of Coleman's young aggressive businessmen take off his apron and hand down his pencil for "the duration." He was popular "Bill" Ferby, proprietor of Ferby's Grocery Store in East Coleman, who will report to military authorities in Calgary towards the latter part of September.

On Saturday morning the new proprietor, Martin Hazuka, was to be seen behind the counter bidding each customer a cheery good morning.

Mr. Ferby has grown into manhood in Coleman having attended both public and high schools. He left school in 1928 and in 1932 upon the death of his father took over the management of the business. His pleasant disposition and hard work has resulted in the store doing a considerable amount of business among the citizens of East Coleman.

He was a member of the Coleman Elks lodge and was most active at its carnivals and other activities. Before entering the army he, accompanied by his mother, will spend two weeks vacation in central and northern Alberta. Mrs. Ferby will continue to reside in Coleman.

Mr. Hazuka needs no introduction to the businessmen, and citizens of East Coleman. He operated a grocery store for four years, only closing his doors last June. He has been an employee of International Coal & Coke Co. for a number of years.

He is at present renovating a building at No. 7, S.F.T.S., in East Coleman and will have it ready for occupancy in a month's time. He will then move the stock from the Ferby store to the new premises. See Mr. Hazuka's announcement elsewhere in this issue.

Western Economy

SINCE THE EARLY SETTLEMENT of the prairie provinces some sixty years ago, agriculture has been the basic industry. Even before the building of a transcontinental railway, hardy pioneers from the eastern provinces and elsewhere were attracted in large numbers by the opportunities this country offered for quick advancement. Here was the virgin, unlimited prairie awaiting the plow, with no impediment by way of stumps or stones to clear the land. Bountiful crops and a ready market for all the grain that could be grown and all the cattle and other livestock that could be raised. Settlers poured in, bringing new wealth to the country, trans-Canada railway lines were built, and branch lines criss-crossed the country.

Ready employment was furnished by railroad construction, the building of new towns, the construction of countless grain elevators and many other activities always associated with the opening up of a new country. An excellent market was at hand for the lumber industry of British Columbia, as well as the fisheries and fruit growers. Truly the West was then the world's granary, the bread basket of the Empire, and no one foresaw the time when its products would be a drag on the market. As an aftermath of the Great World War, our European markets for wheat were virtually lost, owing to the self-sufficiency program adopted by many of the war-torn nations. With the decreased demand, there naturally followed lowered prices for wheat and other farm products, so that today in the midst of another world war, farmers have been asked to reduce their acreage sown to grain.

In order to secure a balanced economy for the West, it would appear necessary and advisable to look to the establishment of more diversified industry. Western spokesmen have frequently urged the Government to establish more war industries in the West. It has been pointed out that we have unlimited coal resources in Alberta and Saskatchewan. As the Lethbridge Herald aptly says there are tens of thousands of tons of scrap iron in the West which could be fabricated into war material. Why the necessity of shipping this iron to the east, when industries could be established here. It is not only during war-time, but we should look to the future for ways and means for providing employment through the setting up of industries. If we are going to retain our population and build up a prosperous country, we shall have to adopt new and more aggressive methods to attain that end.

Potatoes—Are Brothers Under The Skin

HIGH ON THE MARKET LIST—

If you are watching the food prices and want to get good food value for your money, then put potatoes along with milk, cereals, and bread high on your market list.

THIS IS WHY—

The lowly potato is more important than we thought. In fact the potato is so valuable we must give him a seat of honor at the table. Why?—Well—

Potatoes are cheap. Potatoes give you Vitamin C and iron. Energy and warmth.

THIS IS HOW MANY—

From 1 to 30 potatoes each day for each man, woman, older boy or older girl. From 1½ to 1 potato each day for young children.

THESE ARE THE KINDS OF POTATOES—

First in our hearts and on our tables is the white or Irish potato. Then there is the sweet potato. The darker the yellow of the sweet potato the richer it usually is in the "A" vitamin.

TWO WORDS OF WISDOM—

1. Don't diet by not eating potatoes at a meal and then later eating a dessert three times as fattening.

2. Give your family potatoes often and serve them in different ways.

OLD FAVORITES AND NEW DISHES—

1. Imagine Irish stew without potatoes!
2. Claim chowder demands potatoes!
3. Cod fish cakes certainly require mashed potatoes in them.
4. What would a New England boiled dinner be without the big white potatoes?
5. Who does not like Shepherd's pie with its crust "crust" of mashed potatoes.
6. Does your family dislike liver? Try cutting it, or grinding it, after boiling, and then mixing with cooked potatoes and seasonings. Serve on toast.
7. Do you like hash-browned potatoes?
8. Do you like browned potatoes and eggs scrambled together?
9. Potatoes and eggs in cream sauce are delicious.

The referential vitamin chart for hanging or framing in your kitchen is still free for the asking from the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto.

Due To Bone Growth

Chicago Doctor Explains Why Many Men Lose Their Hair

Father's hair falls out and mother's doesn't because, as Dr. Frederick Hoelzel, of Chicago, explains in the Journal of the American Medical Association, "baldness occurs in persons in whom calcification of the skull bones apparently has not only firmly knitted the cranial sutures, but also closed or narrowed various small foramina (openings to the eye) through which blood vessels pass. Since bone growth or calcification is generally greater in males than in females," it's the man who goes for the dandruff cures.

Mother keeps her hair because she keeps her brain open; father grows boneheaded and bald like Mussolini. Yes, we know Adolf still has lots of hair, but other hirsute authorities say that crazy people rarely lose their thatch.

Measured With Spoon

There Are Eight To Ten Teaspoons Of Tea In Teacups

"An 'ounce' of tea and four 'ounces' of coffee doesn't mean a thing to me," said a harassed housewife on reading the rationing order. "I want to know what it means in spoonfuls, and I haven't any scales with which to measure it out."

Consumer Information Service made inquiries, and here are the answers. The Government tea tester measured at the Department of National Revenue, who obligingly turned into a coffee measurer too, reports that there are from eight to 10 level teaspoons of tea to an ounce, and five tablespoons to an ounce of coffee.

Experts at the Empire Tea Bureau claim, however, that most teas provide 15 level teaspoons and a check with an economist verifies this report. Authorities point out, of course, that there are variations according to the type of tea and coffee being measured—some weigh less than others. Although opinions on the number of spoonfuls to an ounce differ, all are agreed, however, on one thing: that the rationing order means drastic changes in consumers' coffee and tea drinking habits.

Coined By Churchill

Word "Commandos" Was Used By Him During Boer War

When the public talks about "Commandos" it is speaking of "special service troops," whether it knows it or not.

The men who made the daring raids on Lofoten, Vaagso, St. Nazaire—and Dieppe—are "special service troops." And any one of these dynamiters, says Combined Operations Command, is a "special service trooper."

An individual cannot be a Commando, though he may be a member of one, for Commandos is the formation or unit in which he serves. The word originated in the Boer war, applied to small mobile Boer formations operating behind British lines.

Prime Minister Churchill, a Boer war correspondent, first applied the word to British formations. His comparison of special service troops with Commandos caught the fancy of the public and the press.

Just for the record, Combined Operations says the plural is spelled with the "E"—"Commandos."

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.

By Alan Maurice Irwin

One or twice I have let my temper away with me in these columns and have said a good deal of what I thought about a number of Canadians who didn't seem to know that we are fighting a war.

Of course that "good deal of what I thought" was said in a manner not calculated to enrich the vocabularies of commentators if commentators' vocabularies can be enriched—but, nonetheless, despite its moderation my language was intended to conceal none of my thoughts on the subject.

It is only fair then that having found something to boast about I should do my boasting with even less reserve than my crabbiness.

And it is something to boast about!

At the risk of boring you with stories about the Reserve Army I am going to tell you what happened yesterday in my own battalion. Because that unit is representative of the whole Reserve Army and what happens in it is being duplicated all across the country I am not going to name it.

Yesterday, in keeping with the set-up of the Reserve Army, we were ordered to hold a full day's workout in the open. Yesterday, I might mention, was Sunday. Unfortunately the weather was not only inclement it was a downright day-long "soaker."

We are not fair-weather-soldiers by any means, but when your men are old soldiers, "C" categories or youngsters you think about "hardening" them to the extent of risking a high percentage of pneumonia cases, so our commanding officer decided upon lectures and demonstrations indoors until the weather cleared.

But the weather didn't clear!

In the course, when he felt that a full day's work had been done, the O.C. decided to dismiss the parade. That was all very well but he hadn't counted upon the eagerness of the new recruits.

Through their instructors these men asked if they might have some more instruction, taking advantage of a wet Sunday to bring themselves to the point where they could the sooner join their companies and get on with their regular training.

No-one ever refuses a request of that kind and, since the basic training of recruits is the province of the Regimental Sergeant-Major and myself, we asked for volunteer instructors and carried on for an hour and a half.

Without question I have never before seen people work so hard when they weren't compelled to do so. At the end of the period as an experiment I asked the recruits if they wanted to go home or, after 10 minutes for a smoke, would like to work another hour.

Only one man elected to go home and that was because he had been on the night shift in the munitions factory and had worked all the preceding night.

When the time comes for active defence of Canada we'll have the satisfaction of knowing that men like these will have our safety in their care.

And mind you, there is no fooling about this Reserve Army of ours. The terms of engagement are for the duration of the war or, in the case of the men in the lowest age bracket, until they are old enough to volunteer for active service.

Of private soldiers, 45 days of training each year are required. These are divided into: 15 days in camp, 10 full Sundays, 60 nights considered the equivalent of the remaining 20 days.

Non-commissioned officers, warrant officers and officers are required to put in 10 extra days of training which brings their quota of drill nights up to 90—plus their work as members of committees, orderly duties, etc.

"No fooling" seems to be the proper description, doesn't it? Especially in view of the way the new recruits feel.

And don't let anyone tell you that middle-aged folk can't learn new tricks. You should see the progress made by men who have never before run into squad drill or the manual of arms!

It's not particularly easy to learn how to march, how to turn, how to change step or how to throw a rifle around so as it's always under your control—but these men are doing it and doing it faster than we did as young recruits 25 years ago.

Now let's come to the un-uniformed Individual Citizen's Army. We are going to have to learn new tricks, too. We are going to have to learn what our fathers and mothers did a quarter of a century ago, that wars can't be won without sacrifice both in the front line and on the home front.

The casualty lists so far have been infrequent and small. Both those conditions will change. Our sacrifices on the home front have been infinitesimal. What's a little gasoline when none of us should be driving cars? What do tea and coffee matter when there is an abundance of milk and good, hearty hot water? And why use sugar when explosives to blast our enemies can be made from it?

We cursed the profiteers in the war of 1914-1919. This time, through the operations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, we can curb them before they get started.

It's up to us—let's do as good a job on the home front as the Individual Citizen's Army in khaki will do when McNaughton is allowed to point his "dagger" at the heart of Berlin.

BRAZIL'S ENTRY INTO THE WAR MAY BRING SUBMARINE MENACE ON ATLANTIC UNDER CONTROL

Washington.—It was the German submarine that brought Brazil into the war on the side of the United Nations, and it may be Brazil's declaration of war that eventually brings the submarine menace in the long reaches of the Atlantic ocean under effective control.

Naval observers here believe that when President Getulio Vargas brought Brazil into the war he sealed the eventual doom of the U-boat in the Atlantic by providing the United Nations with bases for planes and naval craft in the comparatively narrow waters between South America and West Africa.

Submarine sinkings off the Canadian and American coasts have been dropping sharply for the past month or six weeks, largely because the naval and air force of Canada, the United States and Britain have been able to organize effective patrol and convoy units in those waters.

To a lesser extent, sinkings in the Caribbean have been reduced in the same period, but off South America they have increased sharply. That has been due largely to ineffective patrol in the south Atlantic and the absence of the convoy system, making those waters an ideal hunting ground for U-boats.

If the U-boats can be driven from the last unsuspected water open to them, the area between West Africa and Brazil, it will make an appreciable difference to the course and duration of the war.

Brazil's declaration of war makes available to the ships and planes of the United Nations valuable harbors and bases which will complement West African bases such as Free-town and Bathurst. It is only 1,800 miles between the hump of Brazil and the African coast.

Brazil's navy is small, consisting of two 18,000-ton battleships, two cruisers, nine destroyers, four submarines, eight mine layers, two mine sweepers and 15 auxiliaries. Brazil's air force also is small, consisting of only 160 planes in 1940.

Brazil's military forces are small, too, and probably ill-equipped for modern warfare, but her natural resources are valuable in the field of providing raw materials for the war machines of Canada, United States and Britain.

MAY BE LOWER

Cost Of Living More Likely To Fall Than Rise

Winnipeg.—Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, federal minister of labor, in a statement, said that since the introduction of price control last autumn the cost of living index has risen only one-seventh as much as in the comparable period of the last war.

The statement says that during the nine months since control was introduced last October, the index had risen only two and four-tenths of a point. During the corresponding period of the First Great War (Sept. 1916 to June, 1917) the index rose seven times as much, the advance being 18 points.

"The index shows that 78 per cent. of the increase since last October arises from higher prices for three products, namely, beef, potatoes and lamb."

"All in all the cost of living is more likely to fall than rise in the next few months," the statement said.

PAY GOES ON

For Dependents Of Soldiers Reported Missing After Dieppe Battle

Ottawa. Parents and wives of soldiers reported missing as a result of the Battle of Dieppe will continue to receive assigned pay and dependents' allowances for from three to six months, under the standard practice of the dependents' allowance board, it was learned.

If it is established that a man is killed the case is at once transferred to the pensions commission and whatever pensions in order is paid. A soldier however, is not presumed dead until he has been missing for six months. Any adjustment is made in the pensions to take care of any additional amount which might be due as a result of dating the pension back to the time of death.

RECORDS CHECKED

Prince Maurice Of Battenberg Was Killed In Last War

London. The last immediate member of the royal family killed on active service was Prince Maurice Victor Donald of Battenberg, grandson of Queen Victoria and a second cousin of the Duke of Kent, killed in Scotland.

Prince Maurice was killed Oct. 27, 1914. He was a lieutenant in the King's Royal Rifle Corps.

At first it was believed a century had elapsed since a member of the royal family had been killed on active service, but the Buckingham Palace press office turned up the case of Prince Maurice after a check of the records.

STILL BIG MENACE

Germany's Construction Of U-Boats Keeping Up With Losses

London.—Despite heavy aerial attacks on U-boat yards and bases, German undersea raiders still constantly menace Allied shipping, official circles said.

"The output of German submarines remains large and the Allies must depend on anti-U-boat devices to protect shipping," a source said. "The submarine threat is still very grave and our attitude toward it should recognize this fact."

The comment followed reports of increased sinkings of U-boats in the Atlantic and a reduction of Allied shipping losses on the sea lanes off the American coasts.

The Germans are devoting their entire naval building program to the construction of U-boats and therefore can afford material losses, the commentator said.

"The loss of submarine crews is the important thing to Germany," he added. "The Nazis particularly feel the loss of U-boat commanders who must have experience to be successful."

The Lessons Of Dieppe Are Still Being Studied

Somewhere in England.—Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton told a group of newsmen that "if anyone thinks we are going to sit back of the ditch, which is the channel he has another thing coming."

Gen. McNaughton was welcoming a group of visiting Canadian editors and other correspondents to army headquarters and naturally talks at the press conference centred on Dieppe.

"The lessons of Dieppe are still being studied," he said.

"In combined operations it is necessary for each of the forces concerned—land, navy and air—to assess and correlate information obtained. And after that not to tell the enemy all that has been learned."

The general said long training was necessary for Dieppe but did not rule out a quick succession of raids if that should be decided upon.

"Matters were gone at thoroughly," he said. "We have to develop and learn technique. But, just as in industry, when you have the first models it grows easier."

"There is one thing that should be said—this raid proved the alertness and coolness under fire and the absolute devotion to duty of Canada's young officers and the confidence the men have in them."

"And it proved the three separate services can co-ordinate and carry out an action of that kind."

He said he believed the fact the enemy had moved its dispositions in to forward areas did not necessarily indicate advance knowledge of this specific raid.

"It probably means he had a feeling that something probably would be done somewhere and made preparations."

He added "A great deal of useful information on enemy dispositions was obtained before the raid was made."

"Training operations were carried out on the British coast on two occasions and there was great improvement between the first and second of these. Every leader had full knowledge of what he had to do."

DR. THOMSON IS RECOMMENDED AS GENERAL MANAGER OF THE CANADIAN BROADCASTING CORP.

Ottawa.—Appointment of Dr. J. S. Thomson, president of the University of Saskatchewan, as general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was recommended by the C.B.C. board of governors.

He would take the place of Maj. Gladstone Murray, who has been appointed by the board to a new position as director-general of broadcasting for Canada.

The recommendation will go to the Dominion government for action.

It follows a report of House of Commons special committee on radio broadcasting which suggested the governors consider finding some position other than general manager for Maj. Murray.

Dr. Thomson, a Scotsman who came to Canada in 1930, has applied for leave of absence from his board of governors at the university for one year.

Rene Morin, chairman of the C.B.C. board, said that the changes would be effective as of Nov. 2.

Although his appointment will be for one year, Mr. Morin said this did not represent a limitation on the services of Dr. Thomson and he might continue after that period had elapsed.

Dr. Augustin Frigon will continue as assistant general manager of the C.B.C.

Mr. Morin said that Maj. Murray's new position would permit him to devote his time to creative work of the C.B.C. and the development of programs.

Dr. Thomson now is a member of the C.B.C. board of governors and a successor to him will be named.

Mr. Morin said that Maj. Murray had given the C.B.C. "great service" and his new position was one in which his experience and ability would be of great value.

Mr. Morin said the governors were gratified that they had been able to obtain the services of Dr. Thomson who is recognized as a scholar and speaker.

Dr. Thomson is a Scotsman who has retained the accent of his native land although he is a graduate of Cambridge University and has been a lecturer in Canada and the United States since 1930.

He went to Saskatoon as president of the University of Saskatchewan in 1937 from the Pine Hill United Church Divinity College at Halifax where he had been professor of philosophy and systematic theology. He was appointed to the C.B.C. board of governors in February, 1940.

He was born in 1892 at Stirling, Scotland and graduated from Glasgow University with a master's degree in 1914. Later he graduated from Trinity college, Cambridge, with honors in theology, but in the meantime he had seen service as a combatant officer in the First Great War.

He served with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders from 1915 to 1917, and later transferred to the rifle brigade and rose to the rank of captain.

From 1924 to 1930 he was secretary for youth and education of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. After coming to Canada, he was lecturer on "the reality of God" at Lancaster, Pa. theological seminary of the Reformed church in the United States in 1933.

Dr. Thomson is married and has two children.

Maj. Murray was born at Maple Ridge, B.C., in 1893, and was educated at Vancouver and McGill University, Montreal, where he graduated in arts in 1912. He headed the McGill Daily in 1911.

Maj. Murray was chosen as Rhodes scholar for Quebec in 1913 and attended New College, Oxford, reading jurisprudence until the outbreak of the First Great War. In Aug. 4, 1914, he joined the King Edward's Horse, and later served with the Highland Light Infantry, the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Air Force. He had a distinguished career as an airman.

In 1919 and 1920 he was a special correspondent for the Daily Express in London, and then for two years was public relations officer of the League of Nations Union, London.

He joined the British Broadcasting Company staff in 1922 and was with this organization when the British Broadcasting Corporation was formed. He became director of public relations and manager of publications for the B.B.C.

In 1932 and 1933 he was brought to Canada to make recommendations on the reorganization of the Canadian radio broadcasting commission and announcement of his appointment as general manager of the C.B.C. came in 1936.

WORKERS DEPORTED

Five Hundred Norwegians Are Sent To Germany

Berne, Switzerland.—Five hundred Norwegian workers who attempted to leave their jobs on Nazi fortifications, have been deported to Germany where they will be treated as prisoners of war, a Stockholm despatch to the National Zeitung of Basel said.

Numerous contingents of such workers were said to have been shipped from south Norwegian ports in the last few days.

Another Stockholm despatch to the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, said the Norwegians thus far had paid Germany at least 4,000,000,000 kroner as costs of occupation. (The krona is not quoted now in terms of Canadian currency; but its pre-war value was about 45 cents.)

This sum is three times the country's national debt as it stood in June, 1939, and double the total foreign trade for the last year of peace, the despatch said.

REPLACE YOUNG MEN

Montreal.—There are 250,000 German soldiers in Norway today, according to information reaching the information bureau here. It reported that to a large extent young, first-class troops have been withdrawn from the country and replaced by older men who give the Norwegians the impression of being depressed and apprehensive of the future.

ADMIRAL EXPLAINS NAVAL SITUATION NOW CONFRONTING FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

At Headquarters of the Commander-in-Chief of the British Mediterranean Fleet.—Breaking his silence for the first time since assuming command of the eastern Mediterranean fleet, Admiral Sir Henry H. Harwood declared he has two enemies to whip in the Mediterranean—the Axis and geography.

In one of the clearest explanations of the naval situation in this sea yet given to newsmen, the admiral bluntly said the navy has a big job to do and he would rather talk about it after it is done.

Sir Henry was handed one of the toughest naval commands in this war as successor to Admiral Sir Andrew Brounne Cunningham, now on duty in Washington.

"Geography is the essence of the whole naval problem out here—geography and airpower," he said.

He pointed out on big charts in his office the Axis air bases in Crete, Sicily, Greece, Dodecanese islands, Pantelleria and Libya and the ease with which enemy bombers can swoop upon the fleet within a few hours after it put out to sea.

He emphasized that adequate air protection was essential to an successful naval operation, although there may come a time, when the warships alone must risk all in an effort to carry out a vital task.

Too busy to see newsmen until now because of the press of work connected with assuming command, the stockily-built, blue-eyed admiral, 54 years old, received correspondents for nearly an hour in the top storey of his office in an old chateau-like building amidst putent pines along the Mediterranean waterfront.

The admiral declared "there is no way of knowing how much or what types" of reinforcements the Axis has been able to get across the Mediterranean from Italy and Sicily. But he said he believed the Nazis had used air transports extensively as well as ships to pour fresh manpower into the Axis fighting reservoir.

The admiral did say that British submarines were doing excellent work destroying Libya-bound convoys while surface craft were not overlooking any chance to send an Italian warship or supply ship to the bottom.

He did not, however, supply any figures on the percentages of Axis ships lost in these operations.

Along with harrying the enemy's lines of communications, the admiral disclosed warships were kept busy bombarding Axis coastal positions and bases such as Matruh, Egypt, with occasional excursions to the north to the Dodecanese islands.

Admiral Harwood said that when the British army succeeds in pushing the Nazis back to Bengasi the British command then would be in a position to afford adequate fighter protection for warships which automatically would permit bigger and more extended operations.

He said he had no clearcut information of the situation in the Pacific because of the difficulties of getting accurate information but jokingly remarked that if the Japanese lose all cruisers which have been reported hit they would have run out of cruisers weeks ago.

The admiral said that as far as he knew there were no American warships in the Mediterranean. Axis broadcasts frequently have referred to "strong formations" of American warships here.

It was Churchill's first visit to the Soviet since he became prime minister. Here, left to right, are Sir Alex Codrigan, Churchill, W. NOTES AND COMMENTS

Smaller Glasses for the Working Man's Beer

This reduction in the quantity of beer in a glass served in hotel beer parlors brings a smile. It brings to mind a meeting held in a Canadian Legion club room several years ago, when the boys were discussing how they could build up more trade in the sale of beer. One enthusiast, whose girth indicated that he was a liberal partaker of the foaming beverage, had a simple remedy. "Give the boys bigger glasses of beer," he exclaimed, "and they'll all be coming here to buy instead of going to the other pubs."

This cutting down of the contents of a glass from 8 ounces to 7½ appears to be a piffing way of doing things. One glass is a small enough drink anyway, and if the working man must have his beer, why not give him a decent drink, and instead of cutting it down to a measly 7½ ounces, increase it to the size they used to sell in those pewter pots in old country pubs and give a thirsty soul a man's size drink, even if it costs more. Some hot days a fellow can swallow three of the present size glasses and yet feel thirsty.

We are not boosting for the sale of beer, not by any means; but as long as beer is sold in licensed premises with our governments as silent partners getting a big rake off in taxes and licenses, we say, be fair to the working men who like his glass of beer. He is paying plenty for it, and quite a chunk of his ten cents goes into government coffers.

Another law recently passed also brings a supercilious smile, and that is that the pubs shall not open till 10 o'clock in the morning instead of at 8 a.m. The only reason we can see in this is that probably the licensing authorities regard this as a sop to the Temperance forces, who would like to close up the pubs and say "Thou shalt not drink, thou, nor thy sons, nor thy daughters," etc. Very little beer is sold before 10 a.m., for the great bulk of sales is made when the day's work is done and men have time to sit and talk. In fact, we would imagine most keepers of licensed premises would welcome not having to open till 10 a.m., as sales before that time are almost negligible. But it gives the appearance at least that we are making a move towards curbing drinking, when actually it is just a bluff, and not a good one either. All this is small talk, just a few thoughts at random on a topic that has some significance in the eyes of those who like their glass of beer, brought to mind in reading that down in Ontario they are reducing from 9½ ounces in a glass to 9, which gives more than 25% more beer than our glasses.

Some might say, why all this talk about so small a matter; but life is made up of small things, and the right of the working man to his glass of beer is an institution which cannot be passed over lightly, neither can the reduction in the size of the present glass be dismissed as of little consequence. Like true democrats, we will submit and pay ten cents for a smaller drink, but still we maintain that the method is a piddling way of doing things, for it will not curtail the sale of beer, but merely make the customer pay more. No longer can we sing: "Come where the beer is cheaper; come where the pots hold more," for they are the same—at least in Alberta, whether it be in the club or in the pub.

Editor Horton of the Vegreville Observer has a keen sense of humor which bubbles out quite frequently in his editorial columns. Recently he was boosting for buying at home, in the interests of local merchants, and of course told the people to read the advertisements, adding in parenthesis—if you can find them. Quite a little sting in the tail of that.

Better Newspapers Competitions

Next month the annual meeting of Alberta division of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association will be held in Calgary, which will be attended by most of the ninety or more publishers of the province. For several years trophies have been given for two classes of weekly newspapers—those above 750 circulation and those under 750. Awards have been made on the basis of press work, editorial features, typography, local news, district news, and the general appearance. The trophies were donated by the Grain & Milling Advertising Service, of Winnipeg, of which Mr. Cecil Lamont is executive vice-president, and a $50 cash prize accompanies each trophy in the annual competition. In five years of competition, one of the trophies has been won by the Coleman Journal three times and the Macleod Gazette once.

This year the rules of the competition have been changed. An issue of September 1942, (date to be selected by impartial judges following the close of the month) will be compared with a corresponding issue of September 1941, and the papers in the two classes which show the most improvement in general standard will be awarded the trophies.

Therefore, if we wish to maintain our reputation, we must take special pains to get out as good issues as possible during this month. Co-operation of advertisers would be appreciated in writing good snappy advertisements, as these are part of the basis on which a paper is judged. Besides, a good looking local newspaper reflects credit on the community in which it is published, but it requires local support in advertising.

Hints On Canning Vegetables

Miss Vera Richards of the Agricultural Extension service offers the following hints on the canning of vegetables which present special difficulties:

The Hot Water Bath is the safest method for canning vegetables unless a pressure cooker is available. In the bath a rack should be used on the bottom as it is necessary for the water to circulate under the jars to prevent liquid escaping. There must also be one inch of water over the top of the jars during the processing. The water must be kept boiling steadily. Unless the food is packed boiling hot into the jars unscrew the ring one quarter turn, or leave the bottom clamp up for processing. Seal tightly immediately after processing. Never tighten any seal when the jars are cold as this breaks the seal.

The acid bath method may be more satisfactory for canning vegetables which require a long processing period such as peas, beans, corn, asparagus and greens. The acid method requires the addition to each quart jar of 1 teaspoon salt and 1 scant table spoon of vinegar or lemon juice. The time required for processing is then reduced by one-half.

Salt as a method of preserving these vegetables is not generally recommended since there is a change in flavour and considerable loss of food value. Only when it is a matter of convenience in preserving large quantities in a short time or if jars are not available is salting recommended.

Processing in the oven requires a longer time because dry heat is not as efficient as moist heat in sterilizing. The oven processing method is not recommended for vegetables since there is a tendency for the top layer of the vegetable to become brown and the liquid to shrink.

Home drying of vegetables in recommended method and results in a more tasty product in the case of corn, peas and beans than if the product were processed the required three hours. A better product results from drying in the oven than drying in the sun as the quicker food is dried the better will be the flavor and color. Gather when fresh and young (corn should still be milky) and dry the same day. Use screens or make trays with cheesecloth to fit the oven. Free circulation of air from underneath is as important as heat in drying. Avoid using a solid tray. Start at 110 degrees F. (very slow oven) in order to dry the inside before the outside coating hardens.

For home drying of peas and beans blanch 3 to 5 minutes in boiling water, spread in thin layers about ½ inch. For first 1½ hours dry at 110 degrees, then gradually increase heat to 140 degrees.

It takes 3 to 3½ hours to dry in the oven.

In the case of corn blanch 5 minutes, cut kernels from cob, spread on tray and stir often. Takes 4 to 6 hours. Keep oven door ajar during the last part of drying. Cut and see if dry in centre, allow to remain in kitchen 2 to 4 hours to become pliable, store in moisture proof containers such as small baking powder can, lard pails, etc., in a warm dry room.

The drill sergeant was putting a squad of draftees through their first paces. Finally, exasperated at their uneven lines, he roared. Whatsamatter! Don't you know how to line up? All fall out and look at the line you've made."

He: "Will you marry me, darling?"

She: "You bet."

He: "Well, darling, I'll try and break the habit."

TREATMENT FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS DEMONSTRATION

The famous treatment for infantile paralysis evolved by Australian nursing sister Kenney will be demonstrated before Alberta medical men who attend a refresher course to be held at the University of Alberta, September 7 to 11. The demonstration will be given by Miss E. Wood, physiotherapist, and Prof. Huckle, orthopaedic surgeon. Sister Kenney is an Australian bush nurse—somewhat similar to Alberta's district nurses—who evolved the successful and revolutionary treatment when far from medical centres. She is at present in the United States on government invitation, and is teaching her methods to many others.

BOARD TAKES STERN MEANS IN ENFORCEMENT

"I should give you a jail sentence to strike an example to the many property owners who have been constantly violating the rent control regulations," Magistrate Garvin said in sentencing Zangwell Handler in Kingston, to pay a fine of $5.00 and $10.00 costs for illegal increase of a rental. Handler had increased a rental from $30.00 to $35.00 a month.

Lionel Lamoureux of Lachute Quebec, was fined $25.00 and costs for unlawfully increasing a rental. First instance of a real estate firm collecting a rental in excess of that allowed at the basic date resulted in P. C. Gibbons and Co. Vancouver, paying a fine of $25 and $25.00 costs.

A despatch from Vancouver says that sales of "Canada-approved" vitamin flour have dropped substantially in the past few months, the public having gone back to patent flours.

Pass Milk Producers to Receive Subsidy

Milk producers in Alberta districts, Calgary, Cadomin, Crows Nest Pass, Edmonton, Jasper, Lethbridge, Macleod, Medicine Hat, Mountain Park and Nardogg, will benefit by the subsidy of 25 cents on 100 pounds of milk to be paid through order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The subsidy will become effective September 1.

The Board has also fixed minimum producer prices in all markets where the subsidy is payable. These specific prices mean an average increase of about 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Combined measures now taken will pay an increase of about 35 cents a cwt. to producers of fluid milk.

The increase is designed to encourage milk production and assure an adequate supply. Less essential uses of milk will be restricted in areas of short supply if the Board measures are not successful, it is announced.

Story Of Empire's Air Forces Fills American Magazine

In a move without precedent in international publishing history, the magazine "Flying" turned over its entire September issue of 278 pages to the Royal Air Force and the British air ministry.

In it, in 40 articles, the men who run the R.A.F. tell the people of the United States the story of the Empire's air forces, their successes, their difficulties and their hopes.

Profusely illustrated and with a foreword by Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair, the issue was planned by the magazine's editor and publisher, William B. Ziff, aviation authority who recently wrote the controversial book: "The Coming Battle of Germany." Ziff flew to London to make arrangements.

In an introduction, Ziff wrote: "It is important to all Americans to know and understand the R.A.F.—its history, its character and constitution, as well as its exploits. These are the things by which the world of tomorrow may live."

All the commanders-in-chief of the R.A.F. contributed lengthy articles on their commands—bomber, fighter, coastal, army co-operation, balloons, maintenance and ferry—other articles being devoted to operations in the Middle East and to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, photography, radio, aviation medicine, aircraft production, air-sea rescue, research and development, salvage and training and manpower.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of air staff, in an article on "Air Power in War," outlines the importance of air superiority in land and sea battles and says: "The time is not very far off when the British and American bomber squadrons in England will be able to destroy the industry and power of Germany at a rate which outstrips repair."

Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, commander-in-chief of the bomber command, writes: "Germany's air power is declining. That of Italy had declined earlier for her heart is not in this war. The United Nations have only begun their climb to production. No power, no combination of powers, can hope to stand against that rising tide."

He discloses that the March 3 raid on the Renault works near Paris "robbed the Germans of all the armored fighting vehicles and transport of five motorized divisions for a long period," and says that "history will show enemy shipping losses in our air-laid minefields as a major contribution to the outcome of the war."

Air Chief Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, commander-in-chief of the fighter command, says that since the summer of 1941 the heavy and continuous aggressive sweeps of fighter planes from Britain over occupied Europe, together with the bomber and coastal command activities, have aided the Russians by keeping more than 50 per cent. of the German air force's total fighter force pinned down in the west.

Warm tribute to the Canadian businessmen who in 1940 founded the Atlantic ferry service, since taken over by the R.A.F., is paid by Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick W. Bowhill, commander-in-chief of the ferry command. Sir Frederick also speaks glowingly of the work of the Canadian department of transport in building the "splendid airport" at Dorval, Que.

Health LEAGUE presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

INFECTIOUS DISEASES

Warnings that we must expect epidemics of infectious diseases are being given by medical authorities, who point to the influenza epidemic of the last year of World War No. 1 as an example of what may be expected.

Some medical writers suggest that enforcement of certain precautionary measures difficult to achieve in peacetime, become more feasible in wartime. In ordinary times universal enforcement, they point out, falls by the wayside because of indifference, carelessness and lack of a common spirit of cooperation.

An example of this they indicate, is smallpox vaccination. Nobody knows how large an unvaccinated population we have. Health boards try to enforce it with indifferent success. Every once in a while, when smallpox breaks out in a certain community, we are shocked to find that a large proportion of the population is unprotected.

The same situation applies to universal typhoid inoculation; and in its program for Toxoid Week, the Health League of Canada is endeavoring to bring diphtheria under effective control.

One medical writer, drawing attention to this situation recommends that the medical departments of civilian defence groups make it a part of their program to tackle this problem, particularly in relation to smallpox, typhoid and tuberculosis.

THE ALCOHOL PROBLEM: PAST AND PRESENT

Golden Text: The way of the wicked shall perish. Psalm 1.6.

Devotional reading: Psalm 1.

Explanations and Comments

Wickedness in Sodom and its Punishment, Genesis 13: 13; 19:23-25. Our text from Genesis takes us back to the time of Abraham and Lot, when their herds were so great that the land could not support them, and the two were obliged to separate. Abraham, though the older man, gave his nephew the choice of sites. And Lot lifted up his eyes and beheld all the Plain of the Jordan, that it was well-watered everywhere, like the garden of Jehovah. So Lot chose all the Plain of the Jordan, and Lot journeyed east. Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelt in the cities of the Plain, and moved his tent as far as Sodom. Lot knew the evil reputation of Sodom, that the people there were wicked and sinners against Jehovah exceedingly, but he did not think that mattered to him. But in the end he found that their influence resulted in the degradation of his family and the ruin of his happiness. Recall our lesson of August 9th, about Abraham's interceding for the wicked people of Sodom.

"Escape for thy life: look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the Plain; escape to the mountains, lest thou be consumed," was the warning that came to Lot. Lot succeeded in reaching Zoar, and upon the two wicked cities, Sodom and Gomorrah, brimstone and fire fell and utterly destroyed them. It was the work of Jehovah, through natural means. "It is a plausible suggestion that the physical cause of the destruction was an eruption of petroleum, occasioned by an earthquake. Such eruptions arise from the existence of reservoirs of compressed inflammable gases, by the side of the petroleum, at a considerable depth below the surface; if from any cause, such as an earthquake, a fissure is opened the fluid mass readily ignites, whether through lightning or spontaneously; and it then rains down in burning showers, while a dense smoke towers up into the air. All the conditions for such an eruption are present in the region of the Dead Sea.

Taxes could be a lot worse. Suppose we had to pay on what we think we're worth.

Third Of U.S. Population Within 350-Mile Radius From New York

Everyone, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, knows that New York is the largest city in the United States and the area that surrounds it the most densely populated, but the information recently given by the Commerce and Industry Association of New York is a revelation. This shows that a third of the nation's population and half of its wealth are to be found within a 350-mile radius from New York. A breakdown of the population figures show that in that 350-mile radius there are 432 cities having a population of 10,000 or over, or 39.3 per cent. of this class of municipalities in the United States. The total population in the area is 40,359,34 or 30.7 per cent. of the population of the United States.

MRS. MINIVER

Adapted From The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture
By HALSEY RAINES

CHAPTER I.

Mrs. Kay Miniver, her great decision of the day, having been made, hurried across the clamorous London railway station, and entered the end carriage of the train marked "Kent". As she looked across the aisle and caught sight of the vicar of her own village, her face lighted up, while at the same time she glanced a bit self-consciously at the hatbox she was carrying. That box concealed her secret.

"Why, Vicar!" she cried. "Isn't this nice?" The vicar smiled, and offered to lift the box up in the rack. Mrs. Miniver demurred, and explained that she couldn't possibly run the risk of forgetting the bundle.

"I know the feeling," said the vicar understandingly, as he glanced at a smaller parcel beside him. "Guess what this is?"

Mrs. Miniver hesitated. "Port?" she ventured archly.

The vicar's smile descended to a stage whisper. "Wine, then, that?" he answered. "Cigars?"

"Well, why shouldn't you?" asked Mrs. Miniver. "My husband does."

"Ah, but he can afford it," responded the vicar.

A slightly roguish, self-accusatory look crossed Mrs. Miniver's face. "I'm not so sure," she said. "He still has a very extravagant wife. At least he had today, but I couldn't resist that hat." She paused. "I do like things beyond my means sometimes."

Mrs. Miniver was an exceptionally young-looking woman to have a son at Oxford, and her face reflected a kind of warm, quiet dignity. Her three children and her husband idolized her.

Lady Beldon, who entered the carriage at that moment, was an aristocrat of the old school with almost a feudal sense of supremacy and possessiveness. She was far beyond the three scores, and her mark, but still made frequent shopping excursions to London.

"My dear man," she said, catching her breath, as she faced the vicar. "I've spent the whole afternoon being pushed about by middle-class women, buying things they can't possibly afford!"

"Oh dear!" said Mrs. Miniver impulsively. "That means me."

Lady Beldon stared. She was unaccustomed to such candor. "You're Mrs. Manning, aren't you?" she asked. "The lawyer's wife?"

"No," rejoined her travelling companion quietly. "I'm Mrs. Miniver. And my husband's an architect."

"Hm-hm," sniffed Lady Beldon. Not to be thrown off the trail, she returned to her first thought. "No wonder Germany's armistice," she growled. "Everyone trying to be better than their betters. Middle-class government. That's the trouble. It's turned us into a nation of well-bos."

The vicar excused himself, concealing a smile, and in a moment Lady Beldon went browsing down the aisle in search of a vacant double seat.

"MIDDLE-AGE" WOMEN (38-52)

HEED THIS ADVICE! If you're cross, restless, nervous—suffer hot flashes, dizziness—caused by this period in a woman's life—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. And you'll know the difference. Hundreds of thousands reasonably helped. Put down label directions. Made in Canada.

Carol nodded. "No one has ever entered a rose in competition to my grandmother before," she said. "It's become a sort of tradition." She paused. "I know it seems an awful thing to ask, but it means so much to her, and I thought perhaps as a favor, you might persuade Mr. Ballard to withdraw his entry."

Vin swung about. "I see, Miss Beldon," he said coldly. "So the feudal system still exists in this village."

"Vin, please," interrupted Mrs. Miniver. "I mean what I say, reiterated Vin. This is supposed to be an open competition, but Mr. Ballard isn't of the ruling class."

"Remember, Vin," said his father, "Miss Beldon is a guest here, and if you've got any manners at all—"

"Manners are everything, aren't they?" said Vin ironically.

"If you feel something is wrong with our system, why don't you do something?" asked Carol. "I've spent most of my holidays these past years doing settlement work in London."

"The usual aristocratic evasion," said Vin in polite scorn. "You'll have to excuse me, Miss Beldon."

"Really, I must apologize," said Mrs. Miniver warmly to Carol. "Oh, no, please," smiled the girl. "It's all right—besides, he's rather nice. Isn't he?"
